Studio

Arrivals & Departures

Please have your student at the studio no more than 5 minutes before class begins. We have just a short amount of time between classes to clean up and prepare of the next.
Students should arrive dressed for art. The only thing they really need bring with them is a water bottle and their sketchbooks*

Assistants and I will be greeting your students before class & ensuring they find their parent or family vehicle in the parking lot afterward.

Parents

Parents & Parking

There is no parent area to observe students at work and we typically work right up to the last minute of class time. Please refrain from entering the studio before end of class time. The door opening is distracting for everyone.

Watch out for the parking lot - it's really tight - especially when reversing out of a space!

Absence

Missing a Class

When your student is unwell please do not send them to class.

When your student is unable to attend a class we make efforts to catch up in the next class.

It is sometimes an option to take artwork and supplies home to catch up but it is not possible to join another class to catch up.

Practice

Sketchbooks

Sketchbooks are given to students at the first class.
Weekly assignments are given to practice skills, work on ideas for the next class and build their practice as an artist.

Artsonia

Portfolios

Artwork stays at the studio until the last class, while it is here, we do take photos and upload them to ARTSONIA, an online art museum, where we have a Funky Artsmiths gallery. You will receive an invitation to join, view your students artwork and invite friends and family to do so too. If you need a reminder on how to access this, please let me know.

Art show

Last Class

Our last class - for ALL STUDENTS is the annual art show. There are no in studio classes March 18-23.

All fall & winter students attend the annual student art show. This is an event for the students to celebrate their successes in art during our time together.

Portfolio pick up: Saturday March 23rd
